

As part of the ongoing follow-up of the Rio+20 UN Conference on Sustainable Development, UN DESA's Division for Sustainable Development will host a Google+ Hangout on Tuesday, 26 March at 18:00 CET, featuring key experts and stakeholders on Rio+20 and sustainable development from the Major Groups and civil society.

The second in a series of Google+ Hangouts will highlight the successes of the Major Groups and other stakeholders at the Rio+20 conference and the views of civil society on the positive and concrete outcomes of the conference, as well as the Major Groups' ongoing follow up of the conference. This Hangout will be hosted on the United Nations Google+ account

The Google+ Hangout will also feature a 20-minute live Q&A session with the panelists. Questions can be tweeted to @SustDev using #SDinAction, or they can post questions on the Sustainable Development Knowledge Platform Facebook page

or

register

for one of our

Sustainable Development Action Networks

to join the conversation there.

Panellists for the second "Sustainable Development in Action" Google+ Hangout include Corinne Woods, Director of the UN Millennium Campaign; Chantal Line Carpentier, Major Groups Programme Coordinator at UNDESA's Division for Sustainable Development; Farooq Ullah, Director of Stakeholder Forum for a Sustainable Future; Maruxa Cardama, Former Secretary General of the Network of Regional Governments for Sustainable Development (NRG4SD); Jeffery Huffines, Organizing Partner of the NGO Major Group; and will be moderated by John Romano, Social Media Focal Point for UNDESA's Division for Sustainable Development.