

29.10.2015 – UN agencies are working around the clock to bring assistance to local populations in Badakhshan Province in north-eastern Afghanistan and a large part of Pakistan, which were hit hard by a 7.5 magnitude earthquake on Monday 26th October.

According to the latest estimates , the quake, whose tremors were even felt in northern India, has resulted in almost 400 fatalities, with over 2,000 injuries. The figures are expected to rise over the next few days as aid workers manage to get access to remote areas in the Hindu Kush Mountains.
