

At least 1 out of every 2 of the world's children have experienced violence in their lives, and 18 million girls aged between 15 and 19 have experienced sexual abuse.

Today, the Swedish capital Stockholm has brought together High-Level representatives of UN bodies, government ministers from 75 countries, youth delegates, civil society, the academic world as well as the private sector in Stockholm for the first international, high-level conference on ending violence against children, hosted by the Swedish Government. Together they will share best practices, experience and new solutions in work to end violence against children.

Child Protection - Hidden in Plain Violence: a summary of the Violence against children summit report